RUSSIANS COUNTER-ATTACK—Russians counter-attacking below Stalingrad (A) were reported to have thrown back Germans in the Kotelnikovski area, and the Germans acknowledged Russian attacks in the Rzhev and Vyazma sectors west of Moscow. White arrows mark Russian drives; black arrows, German drives; and black line indicates approximate front. Heavy fighting continued in the Voronezh, Kletskaya and Krasnodar areas, with the Germans forcing two crossings of the Kuban river near Krasnodar, which the Russians evacuated.
